

SoftPlan Authorized Training

SoftPlan is the easiest, most powerful, architectural design software available today. While we strive to create a thorough and thoughtful product design and complete documentation, we realize that some of our users value the added convenience of live training. SoftPlan has implemented a training program in which qualified instructors travel to various cities around the country to offer one day training seminars. The SoftPlan training programs consist of various levels of instruction tailored to the individual user's background and experience with SoftPlan. For those who want to use SoftPlan to its full potential, these training courses are a must. We believe these training classes will help you reach the goals you set when you purchased SoftPlan.

Introductory Class

- This course is designed for everyone, although some general computer experience would be useful.
- The day covers the drawing of a simple house from the initial design phase through completion of floorplans, elevations, and sections.
- This course also includes an introduction to roof generation, object offsets, & 3D rendering.
- At day's end, attendees will be familiar enough with SoftPlan drawing techniques that they will be able to confidently begin drawing on their own.

Intermediate Class

- This course is best suited for those who are comfortable drawing floorplans but may have some difficulty with roofs or elevations.
- Attendees are instructed on how to efficiently construct working drawings with an emphasis on proper drawing order, customization, complex roof designs, object offsets, and an introduction to the world of 3D rendering.
- The recommended prerequisite for this course is at least 2 - 3 completed houses in SoftPlan, as many of the basic drawing concepts are assumed to be understood.

SoftList Class

- This course serves as an introduction to SoftList and will make the most sense to users with a working knowledge of SoftPlan. For this reason, the SoftList course is often taken in conjunction with the Intermediate course.
- An explanation of how SoftPlan works including what is required on the drawings is provided.
- Attendees are instructed on the simple generation of a Material Takeoff Report, analysis of existing formulas, and the creation of new formulas.
- Attendees who feel comfortable with the SoftPlan Base & Elevation program will leave with a solid understanding of how best to use SoftList for their own specific needs.

SoftView Class

- This course serves as an introduction to SoftView and the rendering potential available within the program. It is best suited for those who have a working knowledge of SoftPlan.
- Attendees are instructed on how to efficiently turn a concept drawing into a fully developed Interior & Exterior Rendered Image through the use of light sources, customization of library items, site plans, & landscaping, to name a few.
- The recommended prerequisite for this course is at least 2-3 completed houses in SoftPlan, as many of the basic drawing concepts are assumed to be understood.

Authorized Trainers

The authorized trainers are part of our technical support staff, so you can be assured that they know the program, have a strong building industry background, and know how to teach SoftPlan.

Personal Attention

You will benefit tremendously from the personal attention you receive in these training sessions, as our trainers will answer specific questions that you may have about SoftPlan. A portion of each day will be set aside for any questions and answers.

Small Class Size

The maximum allowable class size is 12 people. Sizes of classes are kept small to ensure that every student receives personal attention. Since we believe the hands-on method of learning is invaluable, we provide a computer for each student.

Meet Other SoftPlan Users

One of the largest benefits of SoftPlan training is exposure to fellow users. You will have a unique opportunity to network and exchange ideas with others in your industry.
